MANUFACTURING
CONSORTIUM

NAMC is a collaboration among industry, academia, and workforce development that was established to define and implement a strategy to meet the needs of the advanced manufacturing industry within the Northeast region of Massachusetts.

How We Work

Massachusetts' manufacturers are world-class companies that are an essential part of the state's innovation economy. NAMC works to develop the regional workforce pipeline that will provide the skilled employees necessary for advanced manufacturers to remain globally competitive, long into the future. To this end, the consortium leverages a wealth of local, state, and national resources, which include:

- ◆ A diverse and motivated talent pool from world-class universities, community colleges, and vocational-technical schools
- ◆ Well-defined entry points and career pathways at manufacturing companies
- ◆ Certificate programs at MA community colleges and vocational technical schools
- ◆ STEM, AMP it Up! and other programs to attract top students into the training pipeline

Join Us!

NAMC provides a forum for sharing information and ideas that serve to support the workforce needs of MA employers in the manufacturing industry. There is no cost to join, and the time involvement is up to you. Some of the many benefits, as well as engagement opportunities, that can be accessed through NAMC may include:

- ◆ Attending periodic meetings to share information and ideas with representatives from industry, education, and workforce development
- ◆ Receiving support in obtaining access to resources such as the Workforce Training Fund to support your strategic plan
- ◆ Making connections with graduates from advanced manufacturing training programs
- ◆ Working with students on internship, mentorship, or job shadow opportunities
- ◆ Accessing a wide range of resources that are designed to support the industry and promote collaboration among companies
- ◆ Identifying and sharing best practices
- ◆ Accessing technical assistance to promote innovation
- ◆ ...and many more!
