

The Cambridge Science Festival
and the Metro North STEM Network present...

From Classroom to Career:
Discover In-Demand STEM Jobs and Career Pathways!

April 23, 2015, 12:00 Noon - 3:00 PM
Microsoft New England Research & Development Center, Cambridge MA

Opening the event with Facebook's Engineering Manager and Boston Site Lead, Ryan Mack, we will explore and learn about careers in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) in the Metro North region. This event is designed for middle school through high school students, as well as parents, teachers, and anyone who may be interested in learning more about STEM jobs and their related career pathways. STEM professionals will discuss what they do on a day-to-day basis, as well as training and education requirements, and job highlights and challenges.

Through a combination of fun videos and interactive discussion, participants will learn how to begin on the road to a STEM career! There is no cost to attend, and lunch will be provided.

Registration is required. To register, please visit: metronorthstem.eventbrite.com

For more information, please visit:

Metro North STEM Network, <http://mnreb.org/STEM.php>, or Cambridge Science Festival, www.cambridgesciencefestival.org

For questions, please contact:

Meelynn Wong, REB Associate Director
Metro North Regional Employment Board
Tel: (617) 871-1115